A little girl about four years of age, daughter of Mrs. Brooks, residing in John-street, near Hopkins, was accidently run over yesterday afternoon by an express-wagon and badly injured. Her right arm and her collar-bone were both broken, and she received some se-vere internal wounds that will render her recovery extremely doubtful.

Policemen Dischaberd and Appointed by the Mayor.—Mayor Bishop has recently removed the following persons from the police force: Wm. H. Drake and Joseph Martin, of the Seventeeth Ward, and Chester Cartwright, Leroy Dawson and Benj. Cook, of the Sixth Ward. They were all discharged for sleeping on duty, the evidence being positive against them. The resignation of John Leonard has been presented and accepted. The vacancies in the Seventeenth Ward were filled by the appointment of Wm. Finton and W. F. Seamen.

ENTRIES FOR THE FAIR.—The Secretary's office of the National Exhibition, at the Burnet House, was crowded yesterday with farmers and mechanics, making entries of horses, cattle, products and specimens of mechanical industry, with which they intend to compete for the premiums. There is every reason to believe that the exhibition will be a triumphant success, and that at its close a large fraction of the exhibitors and visitors will go over to Dayton, and there aid in making the State Fair a success. A COUNTRYMAN ROBBED AT A BAGNIO. bucolic Buckeye, resident of Warren County, named James McPherson, found his County, named James McPherson, found his way into a Bremen-street bagnio, last Sunday night, and, after imbibing a very large amount of very bad wine, fell asleep in the arms of a demoiselle. When he awoke, he was alone in a room dark as Erebus; but, after making sundry noises, succeeded in finding the Cerberus of the establishment, who put him into the street. Being aroused by the fresh air, he discovered that he had lost nearly $80, but how it happened he could not tell. He went back to the house and sought it and his inamorata, but in vain, and finally left a wiser and a sadder man.

MEDICAL NEWSPAPER PRUDENCE .- We have ARDICAL NEWSPAPER PRUDENCE.—We have received from a medical friend an article, vigorously defending lobelia from an imputation cast upon it by a news item copied into this paper. Having experienced the infinity of a medical newspaper controversy, we have an inflexible rule to decline them from the start; but in regard to lobelia, if it is true that it has killed any body, that we suppose is evidence according to the old suppose is evidence, according to the old theory, that there is virtue in it, and in a medical point of view would be much in its favor. We have heard many sneers at homeopathy, because any quantity of its remedies could be taken without killing any body.

In going to a hill near the above-mentioned place the tongue broke, alarming the horses and causing them to rua away. Before they could be controlled they run over a slight bank, throwing the vehicle upon its side, seriously injuring the back of Mr. William B. Kennedy, and dislocating the shoulder of a man, whose name we could not learn. There were several females and children in the omnibus at the time, but fortunately none of them were injured.

The Hamilton County Agricultural Society are actively sugaged in preparing for their annual County Fair, which will commence this evening and continue five days. The commodious ampitheater and pleasant shade-trees with which the ground is supplied render a visit to the place most inviting. Democratic Primary Meetings-Immense Excitement and General Disharmony-Various Rows and Knock-downs-Bal-lot-boxes Carried off and Broken to Pieces General Rupture Among the Demeerney.

Our returns of the election of delegates this morning are necessarily incomplete. There seems to have been no election whatever in many of the wards, each faction claiming the victory and neither being entitled to it. The following details of some of the more violent measures that were faken in some of the wards, will give our readers a good idea of the manner in which the primary meetings were conducted.

In the First Ward the crowd was quite large and the confusion intense. The polls were througed, and the friends of the different candidates for Sheriff behaved themselves in a shameful manner. The ballot-boxes were carried oil and the election thus rendered null. We print the ticket, however, which is said to have been elected, although the truth can not be known.

rendered null. We print the ticket, however, which is said to have been elected, although the truth can not be known.

The Fourth Ward was transformed into a Pandemonium, and for three hours seemed to be wholly under the control of fiends, Meetings were held at the corner of Race and Water-streets and at the Engine-house in Vine-street. At the latter place, pistols, dray-pins, clubs, shillelahs and knives were used quite freely. Hugh Lambert was shot in the knee, inflicting a wound which will maim him for Hie; Hugh Kelly was stabbed in the back, although not seriously, and half a dozen persons were knocked down with dray-pins and clubs. Both the tickets were declared elected, and the seats will, of course, be contested to-day.

In the Sixth Ward, a party of men stationed themselves at the polls and amused themselves by knocking every one down who approached for the purpose of voting the ticket to which they were opposed. After indulging in this very agreeable pastime for about an hour, they seized the ballot-boxes and broke them to pieces, thus rendering it impossible to elect any one. The Eighth Ward was the scene of a similar transaction. The ballot-boxes were carried off and the tickets scattered to the winds. Both factions claim the victory, and both will claim their seats in the Convention to-day.

both will claim their seats in the Convention to-day.
Strange as it may seem, the Thirteenth Ward was comparatively quiet. To be sure, there was no election, but then there was no fight. The Democracy of the ward could not agree, but then they did not on this account break each others' heads. The contesting tickets are given below.

In the Fifteenth Ward the different factions had different ward. tions had different voting-places, and persons voted at both places or at none, just as they voted at both places or at none, just as they could.

The Sixteenth Ward was a grand battle-ground, the Waterloo of the Myers faction. The friends of each of the rival candidates indulged in knocking each other down promiseuously, and some of the delegates, it is said, will visit the Convention this morning, if at all, with cracked heads.

In the Second Ward, the ballot-boxes were carried off, but not broken. The polls opened an hour and a half before the advertised time, and closed when they should have opened. There were more votes polled, it is said, for delegates to the Convention than there are voters in the Ward, including all parties, and the utmost confusion prevailed during the entire evening.

All this trouble was caused by the friends of Myers and the supporters of Armstrong, the rival candidates for Sheriff. No such thing as harmony could be found in the party, and in almost every ward the same disbolism seemed to be rampant.

The streets were througed; the newspaper offices besieged; the night made hideous by shouts, yells, curses, both loud and deep, while the firing of pistols and the sending off of rockets lent a kind of deep base to the disharmony, and a red glare to the city in different localities, that would suggest the of rockets lent a kind of deep base to the disharmony, and a red glare to the city in different localities, that would suggest the possibility of a Tophet to the most unorthodox and disbelieving.

In every part of the city there were fights innumerable, and although no very serious injury was done, save what we have related, many persons were badly beaten. The pugilistic propensity among the members of the party seemed all aroused, and wherever it could find vent there were knock-downs and rows.

The following list of delegates, so far as they could be ascertained, together with the expected contests in the Conventious, will give these who are posted in regard to the politics of the city and political leaders of the party, a very good idea of done to-day.

UNITED STATES AGRICULTURAL FAIR—PRE-MIUMS FOR SADDLE HORSES.—In looking over the premium list of the United States Fair we do not notice that any inducement is offered for owners of racking horses to exhibit their stock. In the class of saddle horses, pacers and trotters are mentioned, but no reference is made whatever to racking horses, and the inference in that they will not be allowed to compete.

We hope, for the sake of those who have the management of the Pair in charge, that this is an unintentional oversight, and the matter will be rectified immediately. In and about Cincinnati there are not less than twenty-five saddle borses of this kind, and out of this number there are four or five that can successfully compete with any in the United States, and one in particular, which the owner is willing to back in any sum against any racking horse in the world.

If the managers of the Fair will offer a premium, say of $100 or $200, we have no doubt one-haif of the gentlemen in this city owning racking horses would contribute $10 or $20 each, which would make for the successful contribute and the successful contributes cessful competitor quite a respectable purse.

Proceedings of the County Commission-sus.—At their regular diurnal session yes-terday morning the County Commissioners passed orders amounting in the aggregate to $1,633 50; of which $4 32 were paid to Cham-berlin & Co. for Iron; $39 51 to F. WE again call the attention of house-keepers to the Bodine Jar, which embraces the patent glass lid. They are the most reliable fruit-jars in use. Go and see them before purchasing elsewhere, at C. S. Tallmadge's, dealer in coal oil and lamps, No. 241 Vine-street, above Sixth.

Comic Stories About Dignitables.—We are assured that the story in the Parss yesterday about an ex-Judge being annoyed by the political attacks upon Mr. Lincoln, was a piece of mere moonshine, dressed up to make a good story. We hope it was not regarded as any thing else.

Political.—Henry Rockey, Esq., an old and highly-esteemed citizen, for many years engaged in mercantile pursuits, has been mentioned as a candidate for Justice of the Péace. He would doubtless prove an excellent Magistrate and a valuable incumbent of that office.

The aggregate circulation of the St. Louis Banks, according to last week a statement, is $222,500; Exchange maturing $3,553,666; Specie $701,000; showing an increase over the provious weak in the first of $5,955, and a docrease in the second of $10,826, and in the third item of $27,406.

Yesterday's St. Louis Democrat observes concerning Saturday:

The Exchange market has continued steadily at a fixed rate throughout the week—N gremium for Caurency and bankable fined on the East, and a premium on New Orleans, some of the Sanka drawing at 4. The demand, both on the East and Sauthing been quite small, though heavier calls will likely be made the first of the week.

Currency and bankables funds remain on at qualify, as quoted a week ago.

Discounts, for local gurposes, have been quite the week of the deal, with the low state of the rivers and small rectifits and shigmanns.

THE CHINESE REBELLION. Fall of Suchan Capture of Hang-chan-Harrible Destruction of Life and Prop-erty-Fifty to Eighty Thousand Human Beings Sacrificed.

The Shanghai correspondent of the New York Times writes on the 14th of June in regard to the progress of the Chinese rebellion. The Emperor of China appears to be in a critical condition, the important city of Suchan is in the hands of the rebels, and the Imperial army-which was relied upon for its defence—is practically annihilated. Suchan is the first city of the Empire, containing nearly the same population as Pekin, and superior to it in all those points which constitute a great city. The population is esti-mated at 2,000,000, and it is the capital of the richest of the provinces. The correspondent gives these details:

THE PROST PEPORT HANG-CHAN. The story of the capture of Hang-chen is a sad one, for it has been attended with a terrible destruction of human life-greater by far then which attended the great battle of Solferine, and this destruction of life was accompanied with horrors and atrocities of the most fee mid character. It was asset to of Solferine; and this destruction of life was accompanied with horrors and atrocities of the most fearful character. It was early in March that rumors first reacted Shaaghai that an army of rabels was threatening Hang-chan. This army at first made some demonstrations against Hu-chan, a large city lying between Hang-chan and Sirchan. This turned out to be only a feint, designed to draw away the Iraperial troops from Hang-chan, the real object of attack.

The ruse was partially successful, a considerable detachment having been sent to the relief of Hu-chan. Suddenly the rebel army disappeared from the vicinity of that city, and in an incredibly short space of time was seen gathering upon the hill-tops, and occupying the temples in the vicinity of Hang-chan. As usual, they showed very little respect either to the priests who resided in these temples, or to their numerous idols. Many of the priests, it is said, were slain, and the idols were beheaded. In many instances whole rows of idols had their noses knocked off. In one of these temples was a large number of images of the decified disciples of Buddha, and among them those of the deceased Emperors of the present dynasty. those of the deceased Emperors of the present

A BREACH EFFECTED. A BREACH EFFECTED.

A breach being thus effected, the rebels rushed to the attack, drove back the Imperialists, and secured a lodgment within the walls. Their position was a commanding one, and with a few pieces of heavy artillery the city must have been entirely at their mercy. From the hill thus occuried—the only one within the walls—they oreclooked the whole city. This hill was covered with temples, which rendered the position a very secure one by affording cover against attack, and at the same time furni hing comvery seeme one by affording coviar against attack, and at the same time furni hing comfortable quarters. These buildings were all destroyed by the insurgents before they evacuated the city. I am told, howe er, that one of them, which had been occupied by an Americaa Missionary, and by I im fitted up with doors and windows in loreign style, was left unbijured. This seems to show either some respect for the Christian religion, or a salutany fear of coming into collision with foreigners.

The occapation of this commanding position did not, unfortunately for the people, settle the question of the pissession of the city. At Hang-chan there is a large Tartar garrison, and these soldiers, with their families, occupy a portion of the city which is separated from the part occupied by the Chinese, by a high and substantial wall. They well knew that to them, if the rebels should succeed, no quarter would be shown. Every Tartar, without distinction of age or sex, is dosmed to death by the nascent "Celestial Peaceful Dynasty." The Tartar troops, therefore, had no choice but to fight or die, and they made such efforts as their desperate condition demanded.

HORRIBLE SCENES AND CARNAGE IN THE CITY Here was an impaense population of a million souls, shut up within the walls in-

Here was an impaense population of a million souls, shut up within the walls inclosing a space not paore than three miles in diameter. The gazes were all closed and guarded, so that there was no escape. Forty or fifty thousand men were engaged in a constant irregular warfare in their narrow streets. Thousands of thieves and robbers, always abundant in a large city, started up to make the most of the state of terror and anarchy which prevailed. The will of the strongest was law, and woe to the man who had not the mans of defending his property, his wife, his daughter, his life, from the lawless murderers who prowled about in search of plunder. In any other than a Chinese city tautual friends and neighbors would have landed together for the defense of their lives, if not of their property.

But here nothing of the kind could be done. There was no time for consultation, and there is too little mutual confidence among the Chinese to admit of such combinations in times of great danger. Every man was intent on saving his own life, and had no time ft think of others. Crowds were seen flying hither and thither, trying to escape from some scene of slaughter, or some burning conflagration. Women and children were trampled to death. Parents forsook their little ones or lost them in the crowd. Cannon-balls and bullets were flying in all directions—swords and spears were flashing in the flames of burning houses, and demoniac yells of brutal violence, or shricks of terror, were heard in all directions. Such scenes must have been of constant occurrence during that fearful week, as was testified by the smouldering ruins, and blackened corpses, found lying in all directions when during that fearful week, as was testified by the smouldering ruins, and blackened corpses, found lying in all directions when order had been in some measure restored.

Besides this, multitudes committed suicide rather than meet the thickening horrors of that scene; or driven to desperation by their terrors, whole fimilies plunged together into ponds, or wells, rather than fall into the lands of the ferocious savages who were plundering and murdering their neighbors.
One instance, especially, has been mentioned plandering and murdering their neighbors. One instance, especially, has been mentioned to me, of a wealthy family who knew that their reputed wealth would draw the banditti to them, and who, therefore, deliberately resolved to escape or die together. There were twenty-seven persons in all—parents, chiltenty-seven persons in all—parents, childweiter in Jaw twenty-seven persons in all—parents, children, grand-children and daughters-in-law. When it was found that the slaughter had begun, and that there was no hope of escape, they all leaped into a dep well, and died together.

THE REBRIS REPULSED-THE NUMBERS SLAUGH-

THE REPELS REPULSED—THE NUMBERS SLAUGHTREED.

At length, however, these scenes of blood were brought to an end. The rebels found it impossible to storm the Tartur quarter of the city, and hearing of the advance of a large Imperialist force sent to the relief of the city, they abandoned the place, and made good their retreat. The loss of life at first reported at Shanghai was 20,000. This, however, proves to have been far below the mark. Missionaries, who have visited the city since, say that the common estimate on the spot was from 50,000 to 80,000, and as the dead had to be buried, this number is probably not much exaggerated.

From what these gentlemer themselves witnessed of this terrible tempest, more than a month after the retreat of the insurgents, they were prepared to accept the largest number mentioned as not much above the truth. Whole streets were lying in ruins, and desolation and silence reigned in quarters where, a low months are all was life and activity. The city seemed half deserted by its inhabitants, and the deep gloom which rested upon the countenances of those who remained teld of the scenes of terror through which dispused the city was composed chiefly of local banditti, led on and aided by a few thomsands of the genuine Nankin rebels. These last even in the midst of those dreadful scenes, maintained their observance of the forms of religion—offering prayer at every meal.

A DOCTOR OBTAINS A FORTUNE FOR DAMACES.—Dr. Wm. H. Dediroct is a fortunate man. The Secretary of War has just awarded to him the sum of $119,000 as damages incurred under his contract for furnishing brick for the Washington aqueduct. The brick were not so furnished, by reason of the failure of Congress to make the proper appropriation. The damages are constructive, or are for what his profits would have been had the appropriations been made.
